THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION

1. On 15 August 1952, a Chinese Communist army unit, comprising four battalions with a strength of 500 men each, was assigned as a guard force in the P'anmunjon area. This unit was known by the name of its commander, LIN San (2651/0005), who was a high Chinese Communist army political instructor. All members of the Lin San Unit had received special political training.
2. The Lin San Unit had no liaison with the Chinese Communist combat forces and was responsible only to the general headquarters of the Chinese Communist army in Peiping. The North Korean Ministry of Social Security was trying to determine what the status and functions of the unit would be in case of an armistice.
